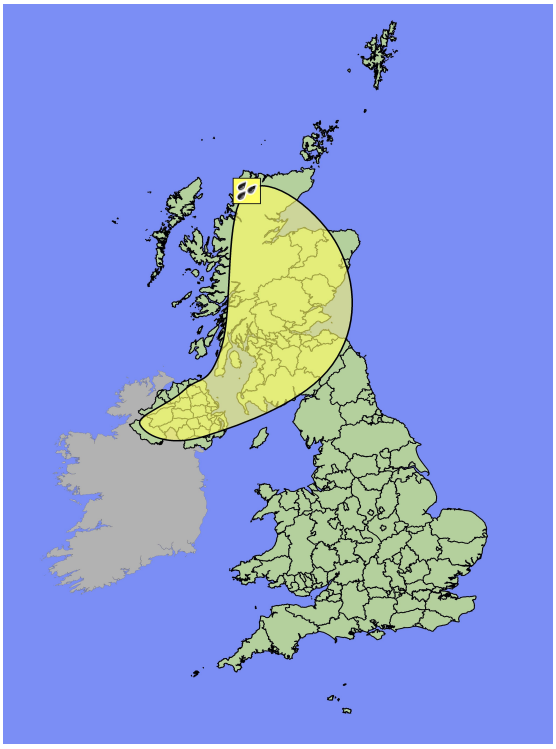
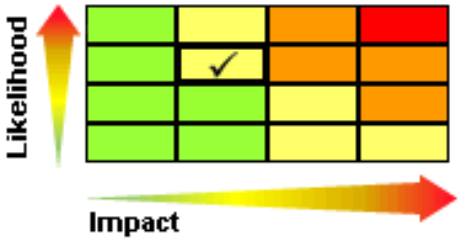
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A showery southwesterly airstream will cover most northern and western areas of the British Isles on Tuesday. Some torrential downpours seem likely to affect parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland in particular, with 10 or 15 mm falling in an hour locally. However, as always in these situations, some places will escape relatively lightly or miss out on the showers altogether.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 10:00 on Tue, 21st Aug 2012 until 22:00 on Tue, 21st Aug 2012

Heavy showers will develop in many areas during Tuesday morning, becoming frequent during the afternoon and early evening, with the risk of thunder and perhaps hail.

The public should be aware of the possibility of localised flooding and travel disruption.
